

Janet Pogue McLaurin, Principal, Work Sector Leader, Gensler

Janet Pogue McLaurin is a leader in Gensler's global work practice areas and research initiatives. Janet has been instrumental in leading Gensler's workplace research including the Workplace Surveys and developing Gensler's Workplace Performance Index (WPIx<sup>SM</sup>) tool, which measures workplace effectiveness and experience for projects. She is active in developing workplace strategy and designing innovative workplace environments for a wide variety of clients including Vanguard, GSA, Capital One, Gallup, 3M, and The Coca-Cola Company. Janet has spent more than 37 years in both Gensler's Denver and Washington, DC offices.

Janet is a sought after media spokesperson and frequent speaker who has shared her workplace expertise and research at many conferences and industry meetings including CoreNet Global, IFMA World Workplace, ULI, Harvard LILA, SXSW, and WSJ Future of Everything and with top media outlets including Wall Street Journal, Fast Company, BBC, CNBC, NPR, Business Talk radio, and Freakanomics.

A registered architect, Janet was inducted as a Fellow in IIDA in 2017 and was honored with CoreNet Global's 2019 Leadership Award for the Mid-Atlantic chapter. She currently serves on Gensler's Board of Directors and the Practice Area Management Committee for the firm.