

Doug Johnson
Building Automation Manager
Calvert Mechanical Solutions

Doug started out in the new construction side of the industry helping build commercial buildings and gaining the insight of the construction development side. He then transitioned into the HVAC service side of installing, designing, and supporting those same HVAC systems and controls. Doug was then tasked with the development of creating a new division at Calvert Mechanical Solutions in starting the building automation system division.

Doug runs and manages the building automation system division where he does project development for new construction projects and design build projects of existing control systems for upgrades and or support while using today's latest web-based technology control systems.
