

Richard Anderson

Chief Operating Officer
CQI Associates, LLC

Richard Anderson is the Chief Operating Officer of CQI Associates and founded the company in 1995. Richard has worked in the facility management, energy management, and sustainability management field for 50 years. He brings a wealth of practical experience to meet each client's unique needs.

The firm provides consulting services to improve and develop programs to optimize energy resources, reduce Green House Gas Emissions, implement sustainability programs, and improve facilities management practices. Services include assessment of existing programs, policy development, program planning, staff training, and ongoing management program support services.

Richard is currently working on multiple solar photovoltaic installations and campus microgrid assignments for clients seeking the use of advanced energy management technology applications.

Richard has worked closely with the International Facility Management Association, Maryland Energy Institute, National Association of Environmental Management, and the National Environmental Education and Training Foundation.

CQI Associates has conducted energy and sustainability management assignments in 36 states that have saved clients almost two billion dollars following the implementation of the recommendations developed by the firm.
